The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) is a federation of more than 800 state and local builders associations throughout the United States. The mission of this Washington, D.C.-based trade association is to enhance the climate for housing and the building industry, and to promote policies that will keep housing a national priority. Chief among NAHB's goals is providing and expanding opportunities for all consumers to have safe, decent and affordable housing. As "The Voice of America's Housing Industry," NAHB provides a wide range of services to help its 220,000 plus members maintain a competitive edge in a very competitive business climate.

STAFF: NAHB employs more than 300 staff experts in all aspects of the industry. NAHB's various divisions analyze policy issues, take the industry's story to the public, monitor and work toward improving the housing finance system, and analyze and forecast economic trends. The association also represents the industry's interests on Capitol Hill and strives to ensure that housing remains a national priority when laws are made and policies are established. It also works with federal agencies on regulations affecting the housing industry in areas such as mortgage finance, codes, energy and the environment.

WEBSITE: www.NAHB.org: NAHB's web site is your one-stop source for information on industry news and issues, products and services, education, and much more.

NAHB's TOLL FREE NUMBER: (800) 368-5242 EXT. 0

Your immediate access to experts on topics ranging from environmental issues and economic policy to safety and zoning.

PROFESSIONAL ASSISTANCE:

Staff Attorneys: Get free legal advice on such issues as builder liability, contracts, zoning, impact fees, and the environment. NAHB's legal staff does not replace your personal attorney, but they will research your legal issue and provide you with a written summary of any related federal or state laws, citation to legal case precedents from courts throughout the country, as well as a wealth of other background information.

Business Management: NAHB is the place to go for "hands on" help for your bottom line. Get vital up-to-date information on business management, ranging from accounting information and management systems to education. If you're committed to long-term excellence for your company, join a Builder 20 or Remodeler 20 Club and find out how your financial books compare with similar businesses in non-competing markets.

Economics: Take advantage of the knowledge of NAHB's economists on topics including production finance, forecasting, local economic impact of home building, state and local housing data, interest and mortgage rates, and single and multifamily finance. Access the latest NAHB economic publications to understand current and future trends and adjust your business accordingly.

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE:

Construction Codes and Standards: As a builder, it's nearly impossible to keep up on every construction code and standard change that occurs, and that's where NAHB comes in. Call to get the most updated information, have local codes reviewed, and find out what you can do to affect a change in your community.

Land Development and Environmental Regulation: Running into roadblocks in your area because of wetlands issues, no growth initiatives, sewer and water regulations, or tree preservation requirements? Find out how to cope with these challenges, learn how to work within the system, or how to change the perception of the communities where you do the majority of your business.

Labor, Safety, and Health: Do you have a safety program in place on your job site? Have you kept up with all the regulations related to safety for your employees and subs? Get the support and information that is essential to making a job run safely and smoothly.

NATIONAL HOUSING RESEARCH CENTER: What's the latest research dealing with urban sprawl? How can you successfully market new homes to seniors? Where can you find great tips for merchandising model homes? Get these and your other questions answered by calling the information specialists at the National Housing Resource Center. The comprehensive collection comprises over 30,000 books, journals, audio/video items, and Internet sources.

REPRESENTATION / ADVOCACY: NAHB fights for your rights! Ranked #11 in Fortune Magazine's "Power 25" Advocates, NAHB has the power to defeat excessive regulations and needless red tape, and defend affordable housing initiatives. That puts money and time back in your pocket! Plus, we keep you informed with prompt regulatory and legislative alerts.

- Lobbying efforts on your behalf to support pro-housing initiatives and fight burdensome regulations.
- Influence with media, government agencies, and industry coalitions to enhance the image and conditions of the industry and your business.
